Paton-Steel Nuptials High Noon Monday

At high noon on Monday last, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Steel, prettily decorated with arches of white and pink streamers and white wedding bells was the scene of the wedding of Margaret Mary Paton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Paton, of Wetaskiwin, Alta., the Rev. Edgar Armstrong, B.A., officiating.

Among the mass of blooms throughout the house, the wedding cake stood forth from a bed of pink and white roses and heather.

Given in marriage by her father, the young bride was attired in a white lace floor-length gown cut on Princess lines with bow trimmings and jacket to match. She wore the traditional veil, this being of embroidered net with seed pearl hair. Her bride's bouquet was of gorgeous red roses and fern.

The charming bride was attended by her sister, Miss Edith Steel, who wore pale blue net with matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Jas. Paton, the groom's brother, acted as best man. The bride's mother wore a gown of black and white chiffon, with a white crinoline hat, her corsage being of American Beauty roses, while Mrs. Paton chose a white lace ensemble with hat to match. She wore pink carnations as her corsage bouquet.

Following the marriage ceremony, the wedding dinner was held at the Wainwright hotel, the tables being appropriately decorated with streamers and blossoms, and taking the happy couple left for a motor trip to the Pacific Coast to spend their honeymoon. Her travelling ensemble was of white sheer crepe with moss green trimmings and jagger coat to match.

They will return to Wainwright to make their home before the re-opening of the school term.

The Dr. Wallace residence on Fourth avenue east is being given a couple of coats of paint this week to improve the exterior.

Miss Grace Wilson is spending her holidays with relatives in the city.

Crop Report Says Outlook Favorable

Good growth and absence of any major setbacks, says the Bank of Montreal crop report, continue to characterize the progress of the crops throughout the Dominion. In the Prairie Provinces, where early snow wheat is now heading out over wide areas, well distributed rains have been beneficial and crops on the whole are making good progress under favorable growing conditions. In southern and central Saskatchewan, and over a large part of Alberta, stands of wheat are heavy. In southern Manitoba an infection of stem rust has appeared, while in parts of Saskatchewan grasshoppers are active and are causing some damage.

In Alberta, beneficial rains have been received during the past few days over the entire province. Crop conditions generally are satisfactory (except in Peace River region, where only a light yield is expected as a result of early drought). Wheat is heading out. Coarse grains are making good progress. Pasturage is good.

Crop conditions in the southern and central areas of Saskatchewan continue favorable. Some northern districts which have been suffering from drought have benefited from recent rains. A large percentage of early snow wheat is heading out. Grasshoppers are prevalent and have caused some damage to crops. Manitoba crop conditions are generally satisfactory and early snow wheat is heading out over wide areas. Recent rains have improved crop prospects in southern districts, but further moisture is needed now.

The K.M.B. Train To Visit Wainwright

The longest Pullman coach train in the world, known as the "K.M.B." goodwill train, starts on its 14th annual tour this week end, and in the course of its itinerary it is scheduled to reach Wainwright between eight and nine o'clock on Wednesday morning next (July 20th); thus giving all our citizens an opportunity to "know Mississippi Better".

This messenger of goodwill, carrying as it does representative citizens of Mississippi, exhibits of that State's resources, literature and speakers, will be bringing some 200 persons to our town as Mayor Middleton and his group in the business of co-ordination since 1925, and in all has travelled a complete distance of approximately three times around the world on this particular mission.

It has visited 47 States in the Union as well as making seven foreign trips into Canada.

On this visit the travellers will enter Canada at Winnipeg and continue west to Vancouver, and it is worthy of note that Wainwright is their only scheduled stop-over east of Edmonton.

It seems very necessary and desirable that a committee of such public men in town as Mayor Middleton (for the Council), Mr. Washburn and Mr. Link (for the Business Men's Association), Mr. W. A. Knowlton (for the Board of Trade), Mr. McBride (who has most of the data) Mr. A. G. Smith (for the National Park) and others interested should be called at once to make what arrangements are found possible to entertain these visitors in the short time at their disposal at this point.

Tell Wainwright and its citizens "tell the world" through the hurried visit of our friends from below "that imaginary line" who will visit us on Wednesday next on the "K.M.B." train that we are indeed "on the map" and fully appreciate the interest they display in their visit to our district, to the mutual advantage of us all.

Privy Council Holds Press Bill Invalid

London, July 7.—The judicial committee of the privy council today decided not to continue the hearing of appeals on the Alberta press bills and the measure to regulate credit on the ground the bills are unenforceable. The judgments of the supreme court of Canada, declaring the bills ultra vires of the provincial legislature, therefore stand.

Lord Maugham, the lord chancellor, announced the decision in a few words.

"We think," he said, "it would be contrary to practice and to the usual procedure adopted by the privy council, that the board should express any opinion to His Majesty on a subject which no longer is practical in any sense at all."

Hearing of the appeals on both the press and credit bills was stopped without their lordships hearing counsel for the respondents, except on the question of costs incurred.

Crosby Picture at Elite For Week-End

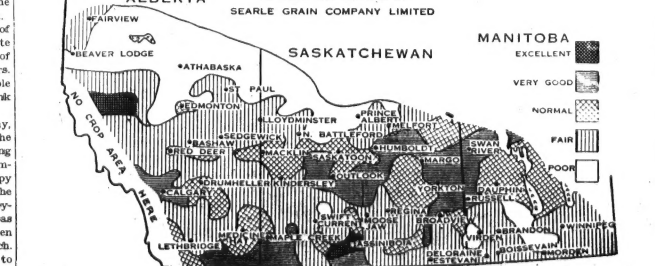

Entertainment values are plentiful in "Penita From Heaven," the latest of Bing Crosby's starring roles at the Elite theatre this week end. It is easily the best material he has had to work with to date. Whether in the fields of comedy and romance or in his favored role of crooner, Crosby provides an enjoyable production. As is usually the case, Crosby dominates the picture, but there is ample opportunity for little Edith Flowers to come close to winning equal attention.

The music constitutes two of the really catchy numbers of the season in the title song, "Penita from Heaven" and "One, Two, Button Your Shoe". Another song, a romantic ballad, "So Do I," is tuneful.

A human interest story woven around Edith Flowers as a penniless girl who is dead set against going to an orphan asylum, doesn't neglect the romantic factor as Madge Evans, a social worker, and Crosby fall in love.

PRECIPITATION MAP OF THE PRAIRIE PROVINCES

SHOWING PRECIPITATION FROM APRIL 1ST TO JULY 1ST, 1938 AS COMPARED WITH THE AVERAGE OF 10 YEARS OR MORE

The map printed above shows the distribution of precipitation that has occurred over the Prairie Provinces from April 1st to July 1st, 1938.

In Alberta, it will be observed at a glance, the precipitation on the average is below normal, particularly in the northern parts which are rather bad. The whole province on the average shows that only 78% of the normal rainfall has occurred from April 1st to July 1st.

In Saskatchewan, also, there are large areas which show that less than normal rainfall has occurred, again particularly in the north. The percentage of normal is 87.

Northern Manitoba has had normal or better than normal rainfall but the southern part of the whole province has had less than average rainfall. The records show that over the whole province, on the average, only 62% of normal rainfall has occurred from April 1st to July 1st.

SERVICE

AN APPRECIATED Service!

SERVICE is the implement field is no mere appendage or fancy trimming.

Time and timeliness are the essence of success in most farming operations. Great loss may be sustained by the farmer, during seeding and harvesting, through machine breakdowns caused by wear and accidents, if parts are not readily available. It is then, that promptness in securing parts has a definite money value.

Massey-Harris has always taken a pride in the manner in which it has rendered Parts service. Fit and quality may be taken for granted, for replacement parts are identical with the originals. Its extensive selling organization, with local dealers in practically every town across Canada, brings this service within easy reach of every farmer.

No matter, too, how old the machine bearing the name "Massey-Harris" may be, spare parts can always be obtained for it.

* Last Spring a farmer ordered a small part for a drill he bought 30 years ago. No demand for many years for this part resulted in the pattern becoming destroyed. To make a new pattern and part cost $25.00, an expenditure willingly undertaken to preserve the Company's long and enviable record for service—although the part sold to the farmer for only 15c.

MASSEY-HARRIS

EVERY LOCAL DEALER A SERVICE STATION

by everyone, provided for her family by running a lunch stand and left by her husband, and many are the adventures which befell Ma and her children.

At 12:30 p.m. "Pepper Young's Family" follows "Ma Perkins" with "Guiding Light" at 12:45. It is the dramatic story of Dr. John Rutledge, minister of the gospel and a genial, kindly old gentleman who becomes the friendly counselor for a whole neighborhood in a typical "melting-pot" community.

The old stage superstition, "Bad things rehearsal," good show!" means nothing to Ring Crosby's "Maize Hill" group. They've rehearsed with the traditional dress rehearsal entirely, and they find it adds a more informal touch to their Thursday night shows, heard through CICA at 7 p.m.

Cecil R. DeMille uses the same chair on the Radio Theatre rehearsal as he does for his picture activities. DeMille has had the old armchair for many years and looks upon it as a good luck token.

Hello, The North

Listeners in Fort Collins, Victoria Island, in the North West Territories can mail letters only once a year, but they have requests played regularly for them every month on CICA's "Hello the North" broadcast, 12 midnight Saturdays. Show lasts two hours and is built for listeners in the far north. Fort Collins is the furthest north post in the Western Arctic District.

DR. R. J. MANION NEW TORY LEADER

OTTAWA, July 7.—Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion was elected leader of the Conservative party on the second ballot at the National Conservative convention Thursday. He received 830 votes. He succeeds Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

The unofficial figures on second ballot: Manion 830; MacPherson 648; Massey 49; Harris 46. There were 1,676 votes on the second ballot compared to 1,665 on the first ballot.

In accordance with previously announced rules the vote on the second and final ballot was not announced but it was learned Dr. Manion's vote was 830. He required 785, half of the 1,665 votes for election. On the first ballot he received 726, just 57 short of the required number.

Hon. J. Earl Lawson was low man and dropped from the race for the second ballot.

Hon. Robert J. Manion has been in the Canadian political field for more than 21 years. He entered it under Liberal auspices, having been nominated a candidate on that ticket while on war service in France, but he ran his first election in 1917, as a Unionist candidate for Fort William, Ont., constituency, and won. In all succeeding contests he has been re-elected as a Conservative.

The first public service given by the new Conservative leader was in the capacity of medical doctor. He is a graduate of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, Edinburgh and Glasgow, and retains in the midst of his political activities a keen interest in the profession of his first choice.

Born at Penrith, Ont. on November 19, 1881, Dr. Manion is described by a Canadian Press writer as "one of the third generation of a band of hardy Irish plow men".

Mrs. Manion is a member of the distinguished Quebec Desautels family which has produced many scholars and statesmen. Her grandfather was a member of parliament and a colleague and supporter of Sir John A. Macdonald just after confederation. They have three sons, James, Paul and Robert.

Like all his Irish forebears, Dr. Manion is a Roman Catholic.

T.V. FIELD PROVES MILLIONS SAVED

Evidence submitted on behalf of the Government of Alberta at a recent hearing of the Tariff Board in connection with developments in the Turner Valley oil field is that as a result of these developments petroleum consumers in the Prairie Provinces this year will pay approximately $6,500,000 less for gasoline, distillates and other light petroleum products than they paid in 1937.

WHEN COLD IS KING

MEALS need to be crisp, cool and succulent to tempt warm weather appetites; and ice—shaved, cracked, or in taste-free, crystal-clear cubes—comes into its own as first aid to summer menus.

APPETIZERS

For a veritable flower-garden dish, surround fruit cup or tomato cocktail with shaved ice, tinted pale green. To tint the ice, pour a drop or two of vegetable coloring over it and mix lightly to blend the color.

To an attractive and refreshing cocktail accompaniment, serve celery curls, raw carrot sticks and huge ripe olives in a bowl of cracked ice.

FROSTY DRINKS

Cold drinks are as much a part of summer life as picnics and swimming, and if you keep on hand a work with the handy little cubes...

The DIAL REVIEW

by Walter Dales

Mr. F. H. Elphicke, manager of station CICA, has announced that the important new hour of radio shows is meeting with even better response than he had hoped. These four dramatic serials provide a thrilling hour of entertainment from 12 to 1 p.m. every afternoon except Saturdays and Sundays. "Mary Martin", "Ma Perkins", "Pepper Young's Family" and "The Guiding Light" comprise the new initiative groups. The shows are released through the facilities of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and radio station CICA in Edmonton. According to Mr. Elphicke, all of the shows are noted for their dramatic interest and fine performance.

"Mary Martin", the first show of the group, on the air at 12 noon, is written by Jane Crammery. It is a down-to-earth story of two married lovers in official life at Washington, D.C. "Ma Perkins", long a favorite of CICA audiences, follows at 12:15 noon. This famous show is written by Lee Gebhart and features many well-known radio artists. Ma Perkins, a widow respected and loved

So many women do not remove one coating of lipstick before they apply a fresh one. It's a good idea to carry a few absorbent tissues in the purse and wipe off every trace of rouge before applying fresh. This helps to keep the mouth from looking dry and chapped, with crumbly, spottily lip rouge showing up unattractively.

In planning colors for a room, walls should serve as a background for furnishings and people, and no single article of furniture should attract too much attention.

Narrow brushes give the hair a better "curry" than wide ones and are much easier to keep clean. To brush the hair properly, part it into small portions, hold the strand away from the head and brush from the scalp to the ends. Your hair will improve if it's given this treatment every night before you go to bed.

PUBLIC BUSINESS
EVERYONE'S BUSINESS"You've probably heard someone who boasted that they 'always minded their own business', and you've probably seen a lot more people who were so busy minding their own business that they never had time to take an active interest in community affairs unless they had a personal axe to grind," says Ed Chavich Chronicle.What a wonderfully progressive community Wainwright would be if everyone of its citizens was like that.
Just think of the number of things that have been accomplished to improve and elevate the social and business life of your district, that have made your work and life more pleasant and profitable. And of those things, think of the number that have been done by those who have beenwilling to take their noses away from the grindstone for a while and devote that amount of time to public service.About us we can see activities for the young people, for the education and amusement of both young and old, churches, schools, camps, celebrations, and so forth... All made possible only by the devoted labors of those who are willing to give part of their time in a public cause. And there is nothing more pleasant than some such work.You'll remember with pleasure the time spent working in good company in some public cause long after you've forgotten the business or work connected with it. You'll be refreshed and encouraged by your find a new enthusiasm in life.The Editor has been present recently at several meetings where a half-dozen business and professional men met for hours, studying problems absolutely outside their province as such,
in order that their ultimate goal—full success—should be reached in their project; and we venture to say that "greater than fine gold" has been their reward in the knowledge that the end sought was attained to the "exceeding full." Co-operation, community spirit and dogged determination are all that we need, and "Faith will still remove mountains!"The extreme thanks of our Town Council to these gentlemen was indeed a pleasant gesture, expressing as it did the happy relations existing and the pleasant time given by such efforts on behalf of the whole of our community.Let us have more of such; they're good for the building up of both town and country!THE STATE OF THE NATIONAs we go to press the world is still in a highly nervous condition. There is truly little comfort for sensitive souls on either the front page or the financial pages of most of the country's big papers.Readers of the sporting pages or even the comic strips are perhaps more fortunate for they know that if the home team loses today it may win tomorrow; and virtue is always triumphant in the end, no matter how black the outlook just now for "Little Orphan Annie!"It would possibly seem curious to ignore what is happening either in China or in Spain, and it is almost stupid for any Canadian to overlook the relation between Wall Street and this country's monetary status; yet it sometimes seems that we are able to allow our worries over other countries to obscure the fact that Canada is still relatively a pleasant place to live in. We have depression, but little destitution. We have taxation, but still not absolute ruin. No wars threaten us directly.So much for the negative side!
On the positive side, the luscious strawberries and other fruits which have appeared on some of our tables in the last few weeks are evidence that in some parts at least the weather and the returns from labor have been all that the growers could desire.
While reports from the west indicate that the years of drought have at last come to an end. New mines are being discovered in the east and the oil-fields of our own province are beginning to justify the long-deferred hopes of those who connected with it.
If conditions had been as basically good in 1929 as they are now, the boom of that year would have beenpossibly even greater; one is inclined to suspect that the over-confidence of nine years ago is being compensated for by the pronounced lack of confidence now.As an example of initiative paying big returns we may well cite the success of the celebration in Wainwright last week, when the greatest number of citizens and residents in this territory ever gathered together, most thoroughly enjoyed the very best "day" ever staged for the benefit of all of us.The spirit is here, the ability to do things is here, and it only requires an exhibit of confidence in our own aims and abilities to force a return to better and greater things for all.
When business generally begins to realize that 1929 is dead and buried and that 1938 or 1939 is open-handedly offering full reward for intelligent initiative, we shall be nearer getting over our national and local "jitter!"Faith in ourselves is our greatest asset!OPEN LETTER TO COUNCIL AND CITIZENSThe Mayor and Council,
Town of Wainwright,
Wainwright, Alberta.

Gentlemen:

RE: SWIMMING POOL PROJECT
As a sponsor of the above described movement, I would ask your kind permission to withdraw and thus obviate the necessity of troubling the council with a subject which is quite evidently completely lacks sympathy and support as far as the majority of the council is concerned and the bur-gessees that attended the first meeting.I would like to state that I brought this matter forward sincerely believing it would be a step in the right direction by providing healthy recreation and popular sport for the young people of the town and in view of the adverse comments I have heard from citizens here during the past eight years through lack of such facilities, I must confess I was a little disappointed at the lack of support at the last meeting. Regardless of the views expressed there, I have reason to believe that with the full co-operation of the council and citizens a substantial and satisfactory concrete pool of the dimensions set out in the government pamphlet could be constructed for within the amount stated at the meeting; and I also believe it would be self-maintaining, but whether it would be or not, one could not gainsay that it is a worthy object and worth some sacrifice on the part of the citizens. Such an undertaking would cost but a trifle of the amount required to construct a satisfactory covered rink, the upkeep of which would be far greater and the length of its seasonal usefulness much shorter.In conclusion I would like to add that personally I was prepared to do everything within my power to make the venture a success and contribute to the construction of same in a practical way as far as my finances would allow me to do.Regretting very much indeed any trouble that this proposition has brought to either the Councilors or the burghesses that attended the meeting, I am

Yours very respectfully,

H. C. LINK

America Chooses Its Typical Small Home

Four to five rooms, American Colonial design, safe roofs demanded

On the basis of a nationwide survey, Randolph Evans, famous architect, has planned for the Monthly Small House Club the best home sketched above. It represents a composite of the typical home favored by builders all over the United States. The house includes 1237 cubic feet. It has an ample living room, including a large, cheery fireplace. The two bed rooms are of good size, equipped with deep clothes closets and the bath is convenient to both. The kitchen is admirably arranged in the important matter of saving steps. The dinette provides all dining facilities needed by a small family save in the occasional emergency of several guests. As the house is planned, there is room for the heater on the floor level. However, the plan has been so drawn that a basement including a boiler-room may be added for almost no additional ex-choice and for economy based on low purchase price, ease of application and long service.

These shingles are also being widely used on already-built houses where it becomes necessary to replace the old-fashioned roof, as well as on countless new homes, rural, suburban and in large cities.

Real comfort for today's American family calls for properly applied home insulation, of which mineral wool is the most widely used and effective type. While such insulation is not apparent to the passerby, its effects are marked to the occupants, not only in the comfort of coolness in summer and warmth in winter but also in economy. Mineral wool insulation eliminates the "hard to heat" room and provides a liberal return on the money invested by definite savings in fuel bills.

BRUCE BARTON Says

Two sides to story

The publisher of a newspaper got from Washington the salaries of some of the local commuters and published them on his front page. The wife of one of these publicized gentlemen telephoned the printer a few days later to order some soap. She was offered an imported product at a fancy price. She said she did not want to pay any such price, whereupon the merchant answered: "With a salary as big as your husband draws, what do you care what you pay?"

The lady replied in no uncertain terms that her husband's salary was none of the merchant's business, and that one more wise crack along those lines would cause her to close her account which has been profitable to him for fifteen years.

Thousands of stories could be told about the broadcasting of salaries as disclosed on income tax returns. Some of them are humorous, many tragic. Whether the practice will be continued, no one can tell but it should not be.

Deep down in the worst part of human nature is a love of pecking through key-holes, spying under window shades, and reading other folks' mail.

If salaries are going to be published, why doesn't Big Business publish them first, and publish taxes with them? A salary of $100,000 evokes the widespread comment that "no man can possibly be worth so much." But the figures take on a different aspect if they are published in this form: Salary $100,000; Federal, state and local taxes, $65,000; net to president, $35,000.

I was talking the other night with a man whose published salary is $225,000. He said that his brothers and sisters wonder why he doesn't send each of them a Rolls Royce. "But when I have paid my taxes I have $90,000 left," he said, "and when I have taken care of my thirty-four dependents I am just about as well off as when I was making $100,000."

Do we out-smart ourselves?

We were chatting about the steady rise of a seemingly slow-minded man we both knew.

"The case hinged on the testimony of one witness, a weather-beaten country doctor. The smart young lawyer on the other side questioned him briskly about an obscure point of physiology, and the poor old fellow floundered. The smooth lawyer could not hide his pleasure. It was obvious that he expected the doctor's halting performance to cast doubt on all the claims of his opponent. He rubbed his hands, and made it clear that he had the verdict in the bag."

"But in the jury room," my friend said, "my first vote showed that the smart lawyer had lost. Not one of us jurors said a word, but here is what we thought. . . . That country doctor has worn away his life, driving through blizzards to attend sick mothers and braving floods to bring babies into the world. Day and night he has toiled, often with no hope of any pay. His book knowledge on the point at issue was lack of him a quarter of a century, maybe. The smart young lawyer had undoubtedly been boning up on the subject the night before."

"Two things we knew, however—that the doctor had been trying to give honest evidence, and that the lawyer had been trying to outsmart the doctor and pull the wool over the jurors' eyes. The smart lawyer probably never knew why he lost the case. Presumably he learned nothing from it. But I learned a lesson. My friend concluded, "there is such a thing as being so smart that you outsmart yourself."

He thought a minute, and then added: "Perhaps that is one reason why a lot of us go ahead so fast in our twenties, and then hit the toboggan when we ought still to be on our way up."

"Up in the Clouds" by Beulah Earle

"Mont," she said quietly, with none of her former manner. "I know what you are thinking—and fearing."

But to put you at ease, let me tell you this. Jimmy and I love each other. We plan to be married. I never really loved you, as you know. I tricked you into the engagement only to please a foolish vanity. I'm sorry, but perhaps the future will help you to forgive me. In the meantime, I hope you and Natalie are very happy. Can you say the same for me?"

Mont paused for a moment, then sprang to his feet. "Sunny, darling," he exclaimed, "of course I forgive you—and wish you happiness!"

He looked at her again, again at Jimmy.

"Does Natalie know about—about you?" he asked.

"She does," replied Sunny. "She knew it this morning before we left for the airport."

"This makes it perfect!" was all Mont could say. He started to pour another drink, then turned to the seated pair.

"Have another whiskey and soda—this time for Nat!" he said, glances reaching for the glasses. In a trice the bubbling drinks were raised.

"A toast," commanded Jimmy. "To Natalie," added Sunny.

"To all of us!" corrected Mont. At that moment the door buzzer interrupted them. Their glasses aloft, they slowly lowered them. Said Jimmy: "I'll go see who it is—wait!"

Jimmy disappeared toward the foyer. His footsteps were heard to stop, followed by the click of the door being unlatched. To the ears of Mont and Sunny came a Voice, low, throaty, intensely feminine.

"Is this Miss Wallace's residence?" the Voice inquired.

"Why, yes," Jimmy was heard to say.

"And is Mr. Wallace here at the moment?" the Voice inquired again. "You're right, but—" Jimmy's reply was broken by the Voice's third query.

"May I come in?"

Double footfalls could be heard in the foyer. An instant later Jimmy returned to the room accompanied by the woman broken by the Voice's third query.

the sequel!"

And as these words hung poised in the tense atmosphere, Natalie burst into the room.

"Did I hear the door buzzer?" queried Natalie, peering about, the room. Her eyes centered at the sight of the strange woman.

She turned to Monty.

"Won't you introduce us?"

"Why—" Monty faltered. "This is Miss—" Morgan. Miss Morgan, meet Miss—" Wade.

The dark woman held aloft, her brows arched. Again the throaty voice filled the room.

"Mr. Wallace has neglected to mention that I am also his wife!"

Natalie recoiled. Her lips strove to form words, but there was no sound. She fastened her gaze on the other woman, then turned.

"What is this—this trick?" she demanded of Monty. Tell me—what is it?"

"Honey," began Monty, stepping forward and taking her hand, "this is a pun on me as much as to you. The woman claims that she is my wife."

"Your wife!" Natalie cried, "but that's impossible!" Her whole being fought against the thought.

"I couldn't have married her," Monty asserted, then looking at the woman he added, half humorously, "I could never have had that drunk!"

Up to now Jimmy had done little but watch. This latest rally from Monty seemed to relieve the tenseness all around. Jimmy turned to the woman.

"You're sure that I'm not not the fellow?" he asked sarcastically.

"I'm in no mood to jest!" was the sharp retort. The woman drew to the farther end of the room lit a cigarette exhaled slowly. It was a dramatic moment; stent, deadly.

The woman spoke first. Her tactics had the advantage of putting the others on the defensive.

"I suppose you all wonder why I don't shriek and fear my hair," she began evenly.

"There's no need for histrionics," she continued without a pause.

"Mont," she turned to face him, "you want to throttle me, but it would do you no good. I have good reasons for coming here. You know who I am—you meet know what I came for."

Before other voices could break in the woman faced Natalie and continued.

"We have something in common—we love the same man—or do you?"

"What do you mean?" Natalie

"It's such an obvious fake!"

Monty caught her in his arms. They embraced. He kissed her hungrily. It was as good to know she trusted him.

"Darling," he whispered, "every minute you're more wonderful than I could ever have hoped to deserve. I thought even you'd at least demand an explanation."

"Poor boy," laughed Natalie, "scared of me—or of her?"

"Well—not exactly."

"What then?"

"You can't expect people to listen to such a yarn and not get even a bit curious, can you?"

"You can if the story is self-explanatory."

Monty looked into Natalie's eyes. He searched them for an answer but was compelled to ask.

"What did you mean by that remark?" Natalie gave a knowing look.

"Any girl with all those stock props couldn't be anything but a very amateur blackmailer. Mont—she's just a rank beginner!"

Monty whispered softly.

"What if I tell her to go ahead—pull all the stops—see how far she gets?"

"She'll just get herself into a bad mess—and give you a lot of free publicity," was Natalie's quick reply.

At that moment Jimmy strode into the room. He addressed Monty.

"If you'll step inside," Jimmy explained in a slightly comic manner, "there's a delegation from the sheriff's office encoined in the ante-room. And I think they're waiting to see you."

"Looks like your amateur is rapidly becoming a professional," was Monty's dry remark to Natalie as the three started back.

"Don't worry, dear," Natalie reassured him, "this is just another part of the game."

Monty faced a trio of men, obviously not intent on social formalities. The stubble of the three addressed him from the corner of his mouth not occupied by a cigar.

"Is youse, or ain't youse, Monty Wallace?" was the first interrogation. "I'm Wallace," Monty admitted.

"Okay, boys, take him outside."

"Wait a minute!" Monty commanded, drawing back. "What's the idea? You can't take me without a warrant!"

Real? Unruffled, undismayed, his self-admitted wife, merely smiled. "Still the same old Mont," she countered. "When you have nothing to say, you just make a big noise and try to bluff."

Monty clenched his fist. He lunged at the woman savagely.

"If you weren't wearing skirts—I'd Jimmy caught Monty by the arm. "Take it easy," he cautioned. "We never will find out what she's up to that way."

In the midst of the din, a telephone had tinkled in the far corner. Natalie picked up the receiver.

"Hello?" she said. "Oh, hello, Mack. Yes, yes—"

Her face was toward Monty as she listened intently. Without further explanation she hung up. She motioned to Monty as she left the room.

Monty quickly followed into the small kitchen. Natalie closed the door.

"That was Mack on the wire—down at the news room," she said. "He told me this Vivian. Somebody was over to see him an hour ago. She handed him a sealed packet of papers with instructions to read them before the morning edition in case he didn't hear from her otherwise."

"What's Mack going to do?" asked Monty.

"Not a thing, of course," Natalie reassured him.

"How'd he know it was about me?" Monty queried.

"Mack didn't say—she probably told him," Natalie reasoned.

Monty opened a cigarette case. As they both inhaled, he looked intently at the girl he loved. It was their first real moment alone since the brief flash of early morning.

"Sounds like old-time 'melter-drammer,' doesn't it?" Monty commented with a trace of a smile. He became more serious.

"You don't believe any of this stuff, do you, Nat?"

"Of course not, Mont!" Natalie reassured him. "Catching him by the hand she continued:

"It's such an obvious fake!"

Monty caught her in his arms. They embraced. He kissed her hungrily. It was as good to know she trusted him.

AN OLD DESSERT IN A NEW FORM

Party-giving can be fun and the refreshments on the "fussy" side if the hostess decides to serve Moided Delight. Here is a dessert that calls for easy to make fruit gelatin and pound cake, yet they are combined in such a way that "delightful" is the only way to express the beauty and fine flavor of this molded structure.

MOLDED DELIGHT
(Serves 8)

1 package raspberry-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 1/2 cups crushed ice
3 cups mixed fruits (fresh or canned)

2 bananas (diced)
8 marshmallows (unflavored)
1/4 cup nut meats (broken)
1 lb. pound cake

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add crushed ice and stir until melted.

Pour a 1/4-inch layer of the gelatin mixture in a loaf pan and chill until firm.

FLIES A MENACE

TO EVERY COMMUNITY

Here is something for every mother to ponder over. According to a leading recognized medical authority, flies—roaches and earthworms (which are synonymous with summer diarrhoea) was the first cause of death amongst children, from the second to the twelfth month of life, in Ontario during the period 1926 to 1929.

It is acknowledged in medical and scientific circles that common house flies harbor germs in, and on, their bodies and may, therefore, introduce infections into foods on which they crawl.

How important it is, then, to protect milk and other liquids, feeding bottles and other receptacles from these filthy pests that threaten the lives of children with typhoid, diarrhoea and other dangerous diseases.

The dirtier the surroundings, the more flies will swarm and multiply in their myriads. Out-of-doors breeding spots such as uncovered garbage cans, be tightly covered, all refuse, manure, rotting matter, etc., should be cleaned up; all food and drink should be protected with coverings, and windows and doors carefully screened. If, however, with these precautions taken, flies should find their way into your home, a few Fly Pads, placed around the house in convenient places, will soon kill them all. And, if the pads are kept in place during fly-time, they'll go a long way towards protecting your children from summer epidemics and your family and yourself from summer diseases and irritation that are caused by flies.

In the 15th century, 30,000 persons were fed daily by the Earl of Warwick, the "king-maker." He served meals to so many at his London home alone that six oxen were required for breakfast.

"Seed time and harvest... shall not cease," the Bible tells us. In this good book are found a surprising number of maxims and precepts about agriculture, setting forth the advantages of the use of good seed, of proper cultivation of the soil, of keeping weeds down and so forth. In fact it is not too much to say that if a farmer today were to operate according to the many injunctions given in the Bible that he would simply be carrying out the advice given by the most modern agricultural authorities—and yet these Biblical injunctions were written thousands of years ago.

This year, 1938, is the four hundredth anniversary of the first printing of the Great English Bible, which took place in 1538. This was the first complete Bible in the English language that was authorized by ecclesiastical authorities for use in English churches, and it was only displaced in 1610 by that very miracle of English literature, the revised King James or Authorized Version as we have it today.

No doubt when the promise was made to us in Genesis that "Seed time and harvest shall not cease" it was based upon the assumption that the farmers would carry out the good agricultural practices as advised in the ancient and good books.

Following factors have tended to raise prices: Poor spreading in the United States and injury apparent in threshing returns; frost damage greater than expected—More precipitation needed over Canadian and American spring wheat belts—Bread shortage becoming more apparent in Italy—Very dry in important central Volga section—Lack of adequate rainfall affects Danubian spring crops.

Following factors have tended to lower price: European crops may be slightly larger than 1937—Russia offering new crop wheat, barley and rye—Argentine weather continues favorable for new crops—India making substantial wheat shipments—Argentina estimate larger than last year—Manchuria plans to increase soybean production.

THE WORM MAY TURN

One of the most important branches of scientific work being undertaken in Canada today is the research on parasitic worms which is well into its initial stages at the Institute of Parasitology, St. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q., says G. T. S. Calder, writing in the current issue of the C-I-L. Oval. Parasitic worms, which are in no way related to the earthworm or the lug worm, do an enormous amount of damage to livestock and probably form the greatest single source of loss in Canada. Work to date which has involved the carrying out of over 12,000 experiments, indicates that the most likely means of ridding Canada of the menace of these worms, many millions of which are swallowed during the life time of grazing animals, will be through the use of chemical fertilizers.

These figures do not include the earnings of blind persons who are employed in Institute factories or on its staff.

BOOKLETS ON

TOURIST TRADE

Value of the tourist traffic to Alberta is revealed in a new booklet entitled "Gold in the Rockies" which is now being distributed through various mediums, including oil companies, U.F.A. locals, secretaries of municipalities and various other organizations.

Some 10,000 copies of the booklet have been printed and are available for distribution.

The booklet contains a wealth of material dealing with aspects of the tourist business, what this means to the farmer in developing a cash market and showing further how necessary it is to develop a system of hard surfaced highways in Alberta. It reveals that only by the building of such a system of highways will the lucrative tourist business be brought to the farmer's door.

Full publication of the article "Gold in the Rockies", has been given in Voice of Motordom, official organ of the Alberta Motor Association. The A.M.A. has campaigned for some

The Legion Notice Board

Very recently the Canadian Legion submitted to Parliament a brief on Dominion-Provincial Relations which caused a favorable comment throughout the press of Canada. The keynote of that brief was "Unity".

We read in the paper that the Canadian Corps Association contemplate the establishment of Alberta as a provincial council and, we assume, the next step would be the organization of branches in all Alberta towns. This is the very opposite of unity and this association should know, if anyone does the value of unity.

One wonders what they hope to accomplish that cannot be accomplished by the Legion. What do they hope to do that has not already been done or attempted by the Legion? Will their voice have more weight or their representations receive a more sympathetic hearing? We think not. We believe there is no surer way to strengthen the hands of all who are opposed to the granting of any further rights to ex-service men and women than to split up our forces and that is what the Canadian Corps Association are doing.

Thirteen years of concentrated effort on the part of the Legion have resulted in many victories won in our fight for recognition. Amendments to the Pension Act, the War Veterans' Allowance Act, Returned Soldiers' Preference, etc. We do not claim full victory or indeed success in all our efforts. We still have the problem of the unemployed physically fit man to solve and it will be solved despite the "man-of-war" organizations who have not stood up to the heat and toil of the day but rested in the shade until some measure of success has been achieved.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tory made a motor trip to the city on Sunday last.

In the morning of life, work; in the midday, give counsel; in the evening, pray. The very art of life, as far as I have been able to observe, consists in fortitude and perseverance.—Walter Scott.
